With a clear sky and sunshine to greet them, the biggest crowd by far of the week came into Maryville from the surrounding towns and country this afternoon to witness the many attractions being offered in the home-coming celebration. After nearly a week of rain and chill winds, the rising temperature and cleared skies came as one great big relief to both the auditors and managers of Maryville's big five days entertainment.

Although a good spirit has been shown during the past three days, despite the weather everything took on new life and things went off with a vim and a go this afternoon. The band seemed to be just a shade better, the free acts just a trifle more interesting and the many shows that line the square slightly more entertaining, with the sun shining in plain sight overhead.

The agricultural and home economics show in the Borrusch building, Third and Buchanan streets, also continues to draw the older folks and the country crowds, while the Maryville residents and youths are not entirely absent.

For the first day of the home-coming celebration so far, the entire program scheduled by the Commercial club, with one exception, will be offered today and tonight. There is no fear of rain nor of chilly blasts from the northland now to reckon with.

The Pain fireworks display will be given for the initial time at the athletic field of the State Normal at 7:15 o'clock tonight. The big feature will be an illuminated portrait of Mary Graham, for whom Maryville was named. There also will be a multitude of set pieces and aerial rockets, and pyrotechnic attractions of various varieties. Tomorrow night the illuminated Woodmen of the World emblem will be shown.

Another free attraction in the person of Marvelous Poole also has been assured by the home-coming promoters. He gave his first exhibition this morning and was well received. One of the stunts Poole dotes on is in lifting an 80-pound cannon ball with his teeth and swinging it about him. His specialty is as a contortionist.

The only scheduled attraction which did not appear today was the automobile parade to have been given this afternoon. The cancellation of that feature was made necessary because of the difficulty of those living out of town any distance to arrive by motor car.

The automobile races, however, took part of the afternoon. Three were arranged for. The first for women, was an obstacle match with $5 and $2.50 the awards. The second was for men with similar awards, and the last was a race backwards with awards of $7.50, $5 and $2.50.

A "dry" dive by boys is planned for 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. The "water" consists of a tub of flour in which coins will be placed. Each boy will be given what he gets.

The enrollment in the public schools of Burlington Junction numbered 109 boys and 143 girls in the last report made by the school principal this week. The average daily attendance has been 246.

WRIGHT ADDRESSES FARMERS

State Agricultural Expert Lectures to Small Crowd This Afternoon.

J. Kelly Wright, lecturer for the Missouri state board of agriculture, delivered a lecture to a small crowd of farmers and farmers' wives in the circuit court room of the court house, beginning at 2 o'clock, this afternoon. His topic was "Watchtowers of Prosperity."

Mr. Wright's address was well received by those who heard him. He spoke principally on the use of more scientific methods in farming, in experimenting to see what feeds are best, what milk cows are paying and which are not, the profit or loss in various stock and products, and the upbuilding of farm land.

RE-OPEN "MOONLIGHT" SHOW

Accept Offer to Modify Attraction—Close Two "Chance" Stands.

Following a visit by the special board of censorship for home-coming attractions and county and city officials, two "chance" stands and a posing feature being operated this week were closed yesterday and last night. The posing feature was closed last night by the city. It will be re-opened this afternoon in modified form by permission of Mayor U. S. Wright. It had been temporarily closed during the early part of the week but was re-opened yesterday. It is situated on the south side of the square.

The two "chance" stands were supposed to be objectionable and in violation of the state laws by Prosecuting Attorney Pat Wright and Sheriff Edwin Wallace.

The "Moonlight" show is one of the attractions of the Tom W. Allen shows.

That the establishment of a board of censorship by the Commercial club was a worthy action is expressed by those partonizing the Home Coming attractions this week. With the exception of the "Moonlight" posing and the "chance" stands, all others were deemed entirely satisfactory by the board.

A portion of a song given at the "Tango" show however will be eliminated the remainder of the week according to the show management.

SENIORS BECOME FARMERS

Normal Students Observe for First Time Proposed Annual Event.

Today was "farmers' day" for the Normal school seniors.

Each member of the class, numbering some thirty-five in all, came to the Normal school this morning bedecked in rustic garb. During the assembly hour, after the announcements had been made by President Richardson, the whole class came trooping into the auditorium from the stage entrance and gave a rousing senior yell.

They then proceeded to the front row of seats, where the faculty members are wont to sit, and each senior took a teacher by the arm and asked the pleasure of a promenade with them. The faculty was kind enough, or surprised enough to do so without a single dissenter. So the procession, headed by President Richardson, and Orlo Quinn, president of the class, went the entire round of the auditorium.

The seniors then marched to the front of the room and took the faculty seats while the faculty took the rear. The class president then explained that this was the first annual farmers' day, to be held the third Friday in October of each year, and that the succeeding senior classes were to have charge of the programs.

The rest of the assembly hours was taken up with the usual song period each Friday, directed by Prof. H. B. Schuler.

The promotion takes effect at once. The staff of the second battalion will now be located at Maryville. It will consist of Major Phipps and a battalion adjutant, to be appointed within a few days by Mr. Phipps. He will be selected from the local team. The Second battalion consists of the teams of the Chillicothe, Stanberry, Maryville, Rock Port and Maitland camps.

IS BEST COUNTY

"AS GOOD TALENT HERE"

E. E. E. McJimsey Tells "Homecomers" Present Nodaway Residents Are Good as Deserters.

In an address expressing in each sentence that the speaker really and truly did have a real hankering for Maryville, the town of his boyhood, E. E. E. McJimsey of Springfield recalled to a large home-coming crowd at the court house yesterday afternoon a few incidents of his early life here. He also lauded Nodaway county as the best in the entire state, and said that the present human material here was as good as, or better than, that which he had left. He also paid a few compliments to the Ozark region and Springfield.

Mr. McJimsey now is editor and publisher of the Springfield Republican, and is interested civically in many other way in the "Queen city." Until recently he was postmaster there. Mr. McJimsey will return to his home tonight after visiting today in Maryville with old-time friends. His visit this week was the first within the last seven years.

"I count it a privilege rather than a privation to come clear across the state the long way—from Arkansas to Iowa, almost—to be with you, my comrades and acquaintances of the olden days to be with you in this Home Coming Celebration," said Mr. McJimsey in greeting the crowd.

"Few are the days in which I do not recall and relive some of the incidents of the way-back-yonder yesterdays among my playmates at school or my fellows with whom I touched elbows from day to day in my more mature years here in the capital of Edenic Nodaway.

"In leaving here I took not overmuch in goods or money—mostly good will for those I left behind and a purpose to realize some of the dreams that had animated me and urged me on here in my manhood's early morning.

"One thing sure, if I ever harbored in my heart hatred, envy or ill will for any man in all Nodaway county, I lost it completely and beyond recovery on the way.

Recalls Boyhood.

"So now, as always, I look backward with nothing but pleasurable recollections to the times and trings that were a part of the life, the thought and the activity of this community what time I was privileged to play an always interested though more or less inconsequential part among you.

"With something of pride do I recall that never, so far as memory serves me, did I take sides against any public spirited movement in Maryville, or distribute ashes on the side of any man who was honestly striving for his own or the city's well-being and upbuilding.

"I think it a provable proposition,—not because I was among those who went—that Maryville has sent more serviceable talent out in to the world than almost any other city of similar size on the map of the western hemisphere.

Best Still Remains.

"But however high talented sons Nodaway county has sent out into the world I am neither so foolish nor uninformed as to hold them at all superior in clay or in capacity to the sons who remain. Rather would I be willing to wager that in a battle of wits of a comparison of worth, the latter would easily prove themselves the best of the brood.

"If I required the services of a great lawyer I would come to Maryville to find him.

"If I wanted a difficult political mission well done, straightway would I select a Maryville man to "get busy" on the job.

"If I needed experienced expert advice on the breeding and rearing of sheep, swine, poultry, cattle, horses, mules, boys or girls there is but one place I would think of going in search for it.

"I feel I have the best of warrant for the tender love I bear the old town. It was here I first came to realize through stern experience, though in a limited way, of course, some of the hardships and privations of the early settlers or pioneers. Our little family felt the pinch of mighty tight times, I tell yo, back there in 1875. My father had spent most of his substance in removing his goods and family form 'Hoosierland' to 'Show-Me-Land.'

Too Poor For Circus

One incident serves to throw a vivid light on our then straightened circumstances. Our home at the time was on Fourth street immediately adjoining on the west what was then known as the Ridgeway lumber yard. A circus had come to town and the McJimsey boys, after the fashion of healthy American boys generally, were impatient, eager and hungry to go.

"To our—or at least my—repeated importunities, for I was the younger of the two and therefore the harder to be denied, my father finally gave a kindly but decisive "No." No explanation was vouchsafed us at the time, but later on we learned through mother that the reason we did not get to see the inside of the circus that day was because father did not have the price, we were that poor.

"Well do I remember, shall I ever forget? that when those dark days seemed darkest Fayette Smith—my heartfelt blessings on his memory—offered me a job at $15 a month—princely pay for a penniless lad of thirteen—to help care for and ride his stable of race horses, on the back of which I rode to many a hairraising finish on the straight tracks west of town near the White Cloud and on the old, now new, fair grounds east of town.

Nodaway County Best County.

"While my ambitions and interests as a newspaper man led me away from Maryville and Northwest Missouri, I want you to know I have never even so much dreamed of taking up my place of residence any other where than in Old Missouri.

"If you ever hear of my departing this state I beg you to believe there is but one other paradise which could allure me and hold my affections true.

"On earth there is but one state that in my judgment and devotion stands out big and bold and beautiful—sublimely alone and successfully defiant of all comparisons.

"In much that makes Missouri great I gladly subscribe to the general verdict assigning to Nodaway county a proud preeminence among the 114 counties that constitute our matchless marvelous commonwealth.

Lauds Ozark Region.

"But I should be a traitor to Truth and disloyal to Duty did I neglect so golden an opportunity as this occasion affords to tell you, what all the world must one day realize and acknowledge, that in the Ozark uplift lies fields as fine and fertile, resources as rich and varied, opportunities as wide and wonderful as can be found in all the vast stretches of God's great out of doors.

"Paradise of fishermen, playgrounds of the people, grain, fruit and vineyard, Eden of the western world.

"With the harnessing of the age-long wasted energies of the rushing rivers, the innumerable springs of the Ozark regions, already under way, southwest Missouri will, in the years to be, become the over-rival of industrial New England.

Bouquet for Springfield.

"Crowning the Ozarks and ruling over them as a great and gracious queen sits Springfield, the most rapidly developing, by far the most beautiful of mid-western population centers.

"How shall I describe her incomparable charm, her forests of oak and elm, her sugar maples, now touched to a veritable rose garden of rich and intoxicating colorings by the frosts of that divinest of painters, October. Could I better visualize her for you than to say that Springfield is Maryville ten times multiplied and harmoniously multiplied. That is what she is. If there be any here who doubt it I tender you a kindly and urgent invitation to come the Springfield way and I'll show you."

B. R. Martin, an attorney of St. Joseph, who formerly practiced law in Maryville, and Arthur Miller of Kansas City, also a former Nodaway county resident, likewise spoke at the home-coming in the court house yesterday afternoon.

Both recalled the days of their residence in the county and of little incidents coming up. They also paid compliments to Maryville's growth and of the wealth of Nodaway county in wealth and men and women.

POLITICAL NOTES.

What's the matter with the Wilson administration in the nation and the Major administration in the state? They are all right.

The state administration is so sound that the Republican platform does not criticize it in a single particular. The Democratic party promised the people certain legislation and the party of the people made good; hence the guns of the G. O. P. are spiked.

Despite the frantic predictions of the standpat disciples of the Cannon-Aldrich-Morse regime the state treasury refuses to go busted. In fact, there is more than five millions of dollars in the state's strong box today. It's a Democratic way in Missouri.

Governor Major is asking the people of the state to give him a Democratic legislature this winter that he may carry his campaign for better schools and better roads to a successful conclusion. And the people who believe in better schools and better roads should vote that way in November.

Show Couple Marry.

The marriage license was issued yesterday in the office of the recorder of deeds.

Builds Economic Silo.

Ed Goodwin finished last week putting up a silo that Mutti & Brown had sold to Earl Dowling, west of town. It is 12x30, with an adjustable top, said to be the first of the kind to be erected in this vicinity. The adjustable top allows the silo to be filled "to the brim," and after the ensilage settles the top can be lowered to its proper position, thus gaining the four or five feet usually lost in the ordinary silo.—Hopkins Journal.

The First Lesson

In life should be to learn to save a part of what you earn. Remember, it is not how much you earn; it's what you save that counts. Remember there are lot of things that might happen over night when it would be convenient to lay your hands on some ready money. PLANTING BULBS NOW.

State Expert Advises Work in Flower Beds During October.

The time to plant bulbs is in the early fall, says H. E. Major of the state agricultural college. For outdoor culture buy first grade bulbs of the following varieties:

Tulips—Keiserkroon, tall red and yellow; chrysolora, yellow, dwarf; Rembrandt, dark red, dwarf.

High grade bulbs are never sold in mixtures. Plant the keiserkroon variety nine inches deep, the other seven inches deep.

Hyacinths—Electra, blue, large; Charles Dickens, single, pink, fine; la grandesse, single, white.

Double varieties are inferior to single varieties. Plant hyacinths nine inches deep.

Narcissus—Emperor, "paper white," and "poeticus." Plant out of doors deep in rich, sandy loam soil. Drain well. After blooming allow the foliage to die away. Do not cut it. Good foliage means fine bloom next year.

For indoor culture bulbs rank supreme. The secret of success here lies in securing heavy root growth before the leaves are allowed to appear. To obtain this root growth, place bulbs in pots or pans five inches deep in a rich, sandy loam soil well drained. Set away in a dark, cool place for several weeks. Water occasionally. Frequently these pots, pans, flats, etc., are "plunged" out of doors, covered with several inches of soil and left until after the ground freezes slightly. Then "lift," bring into the warmth and sunshine, water thoroughly as needed, but do not drown. Success is then assured. When buying, secure firm, clean, large bulbs, free from fungus diseases. Better buy from dealers who import direct from Europe and who guarantee the quality of their stock. Our best bulbs mostly come from Holland.

For forcing, plant in October and successively for Christmas and Easter bloom. Most bulbs force to bloom in about eight weeks after being brought into the sun light. The best varieties for indoor culture are moreno and Roman hyacinths, freezia refracta alba, Van Thol tulips, double Roman and paper white narcissi.

Chinese lilies and Roman hyacinths may be grown in water in a bovril bottle, or surrounded by stones in a deep glass bowl of water. Plant deep in rich soil and have perfect drainage. Plenty of good roots before forcing means good flowers. Not all varieties force well. The ones noted above will.

GERMANS FIGHT WAY TO COAST

Teutons Reach English Channel.

OSTEND ATTACK NEAR

Official Statements of Contending Nations Widely at Variance.

FRENCH REPORT IS OPTIMISTIC

Says Battle Is Slowly and Surely Going Against Invaders.

WAR NEWS SUMMARIZED

In the northwest of Belgium the Germans are rapidly bringing their forces to the coast. They have occupied Bruges, about fourteen miles east of Ostend, and have appeared at Blankenberghe, on the North sea twelve miles northeast of Ostend.

In the meantime, however, the allies have thrown a strong line out to the south with the object of shutting off Calais and other French ports or the English channel. The allies occupy Ypres and their line is believed to extend almost directly northward to Nieuwpoort. This territory within the next few days will be the scene of heavy fighting if the reported German plans are carried out.

That Emperor William of Germany is following with interest the showing of his soldiers is denoted by the fact that his headquarters have been moved farther into France.

Petrograd reports no change on the eastern Prussian and central Vistula fronts, but claims a victory for a Russian column over the Austrians south of Przemysl.

Vienna reports that, according to official German communication, the Austro-German armies have relieved the fortress of Przemysl.

Already the revolting forces in South Africa under Colonel Maritz have been engaged by a column of the Union of South Africa troops and eighty of the rebels captured.

London, Oct. 16.—The Germans have appeared at Blankenberghe, on the English channel, nine miles northwest of Bruges, and are expected to arrive at Ostend today, according to Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent.

After a brief battle near Ursel, ten miles southeast of Bruges, the correspondent says, the Germans opened the way to Bruges.

Two great battles, one in northern France and Belgium, the other in Russian Poland, both with a front of 300 miles, have reached their height, but the public is allowed only an occasional glimpse of their progress through official communications, which frequently are widely at variance.

From the French report it appears that the western battle is going slowly but surely in favor of the allies. Under the pressure of the troops of the allies, the Germans who started to advance on Calais and other French coast ports have been forced to evacuate the left bank of the Lys river which is a considerable distance east of the points their advance guards reached last week.

Allies Make Progress.

Farther east in the Lens district and southward between Arras and Albert where the Germans made their initial attempt to work around the allies' left the English and French have made "notable progress."

Evidence that the German assaults are being delivered with less force is conveyed in the intimation that between the Somme and the Oise their artillery attacks are not being followed up with infantry charges. It is possible that they have withdrawn some of their troops from this position to strengthen their advance toward the coast, but it is considered this would be risky, as it might permit the allies to break through and interrupt the communications of their armies fighting north of the Aisne.

Advance In Center.

In the center the allies also have advanced, particularly toward Craonne, and several German trenches are reported to have been carried to the northwest of the road from Berry-Au-Bac to Rheims and to the north of Prunay in the direction of Beine which is slightly southeast of Rheims.

All this shows a determined and partly successful attempt to drive the Germans away from Rheims, which is again under bombardment. The famous cathedral again has been made the target of the German artillery, the Germans accusing the French of having used the towers for military purposes.
